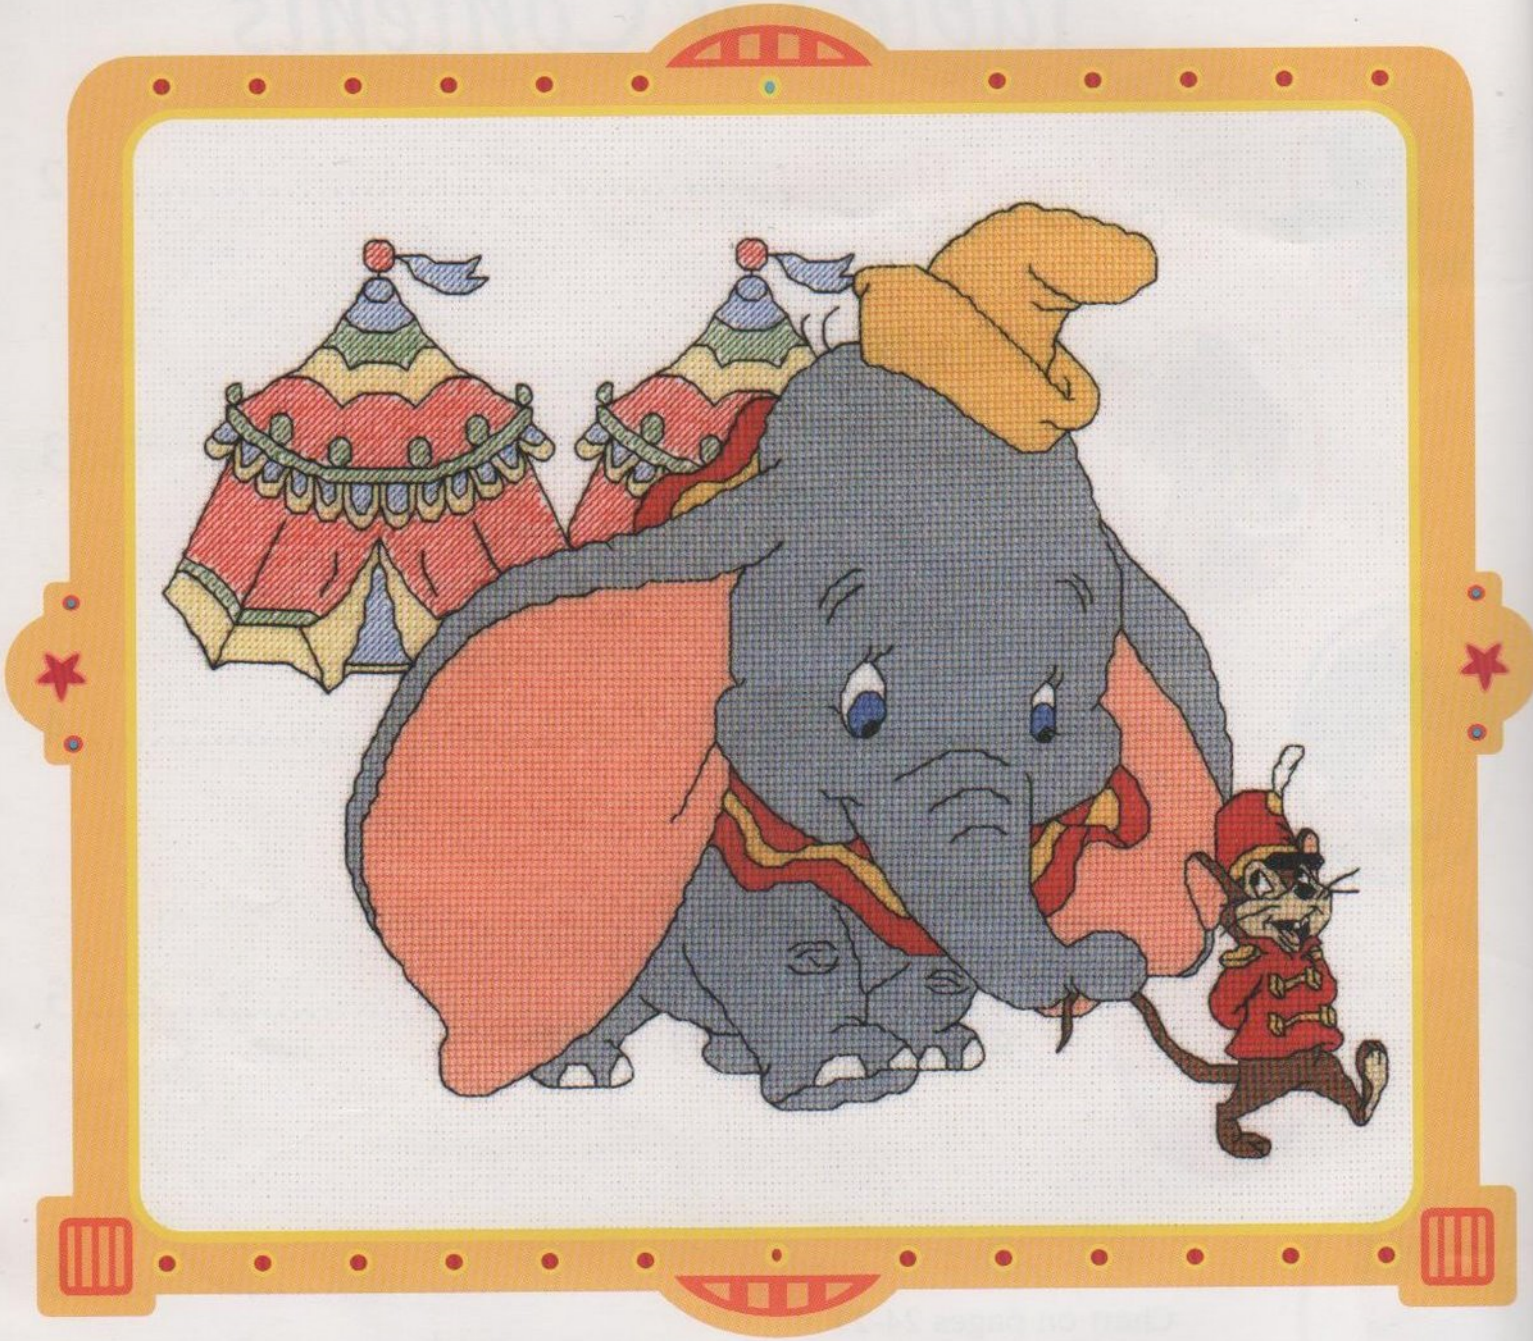
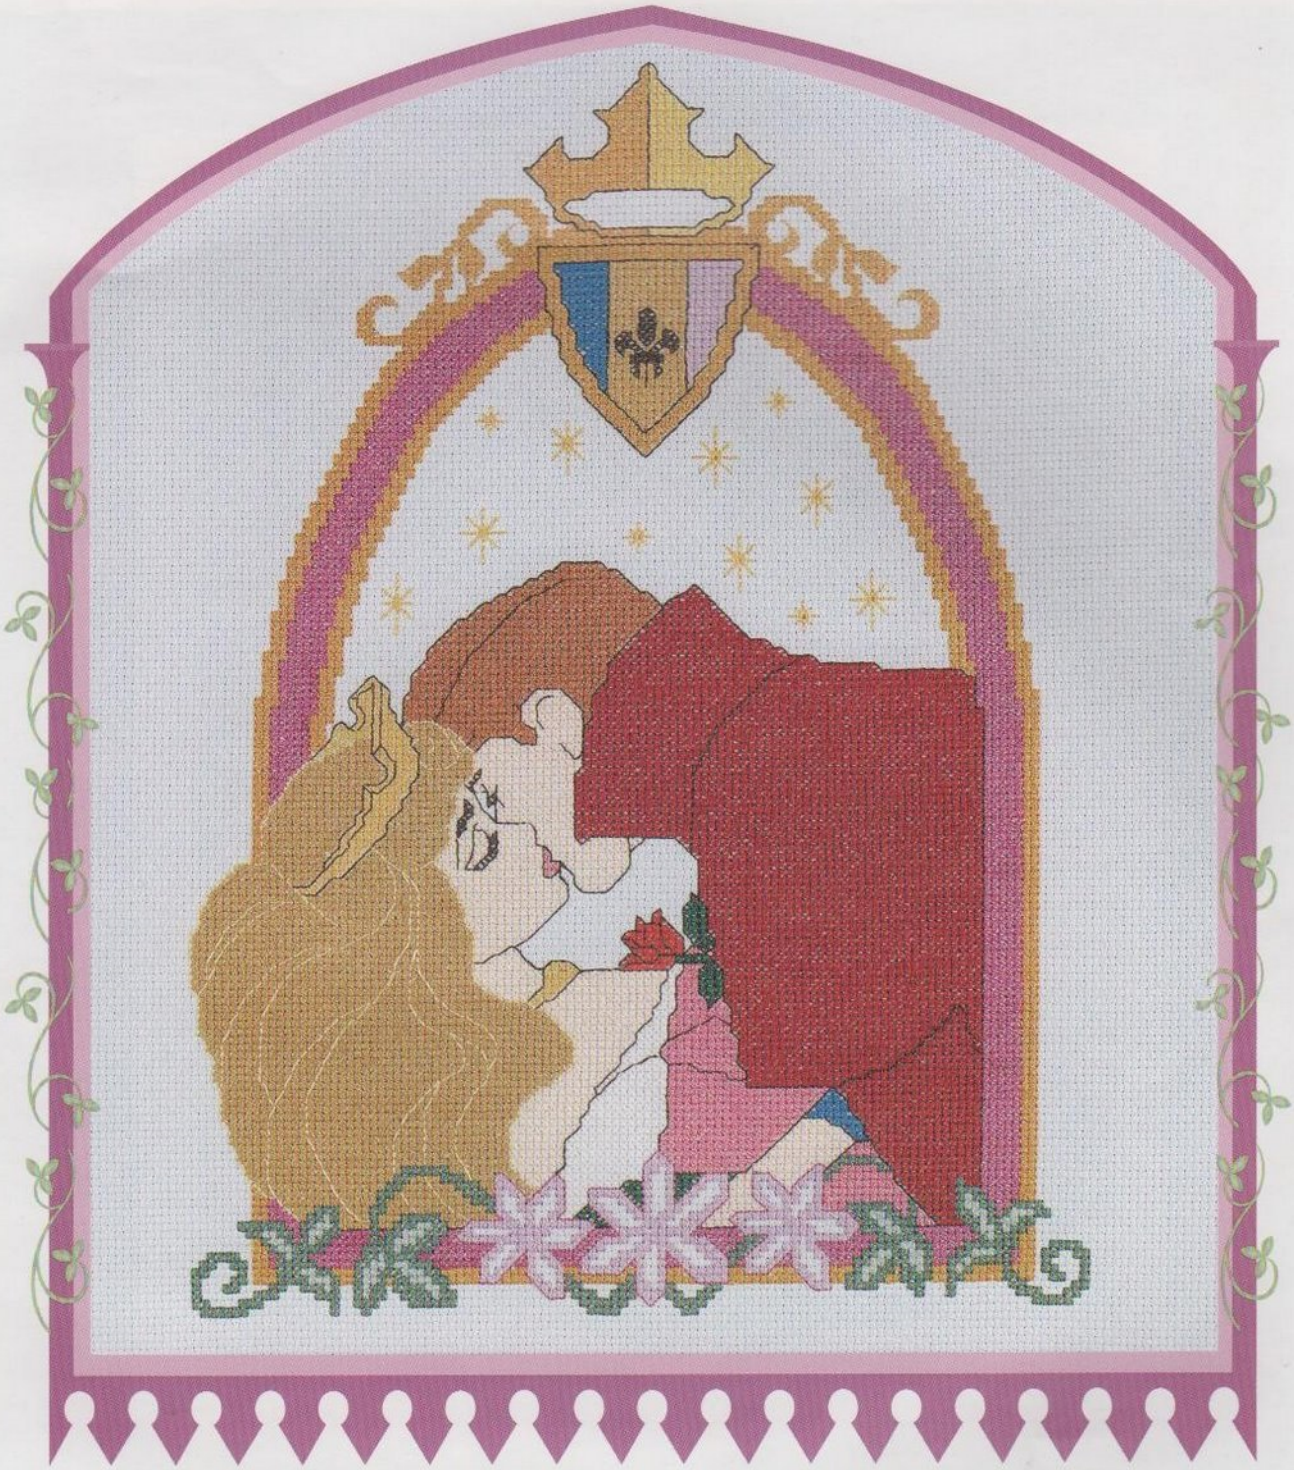
General Instructions 32-33



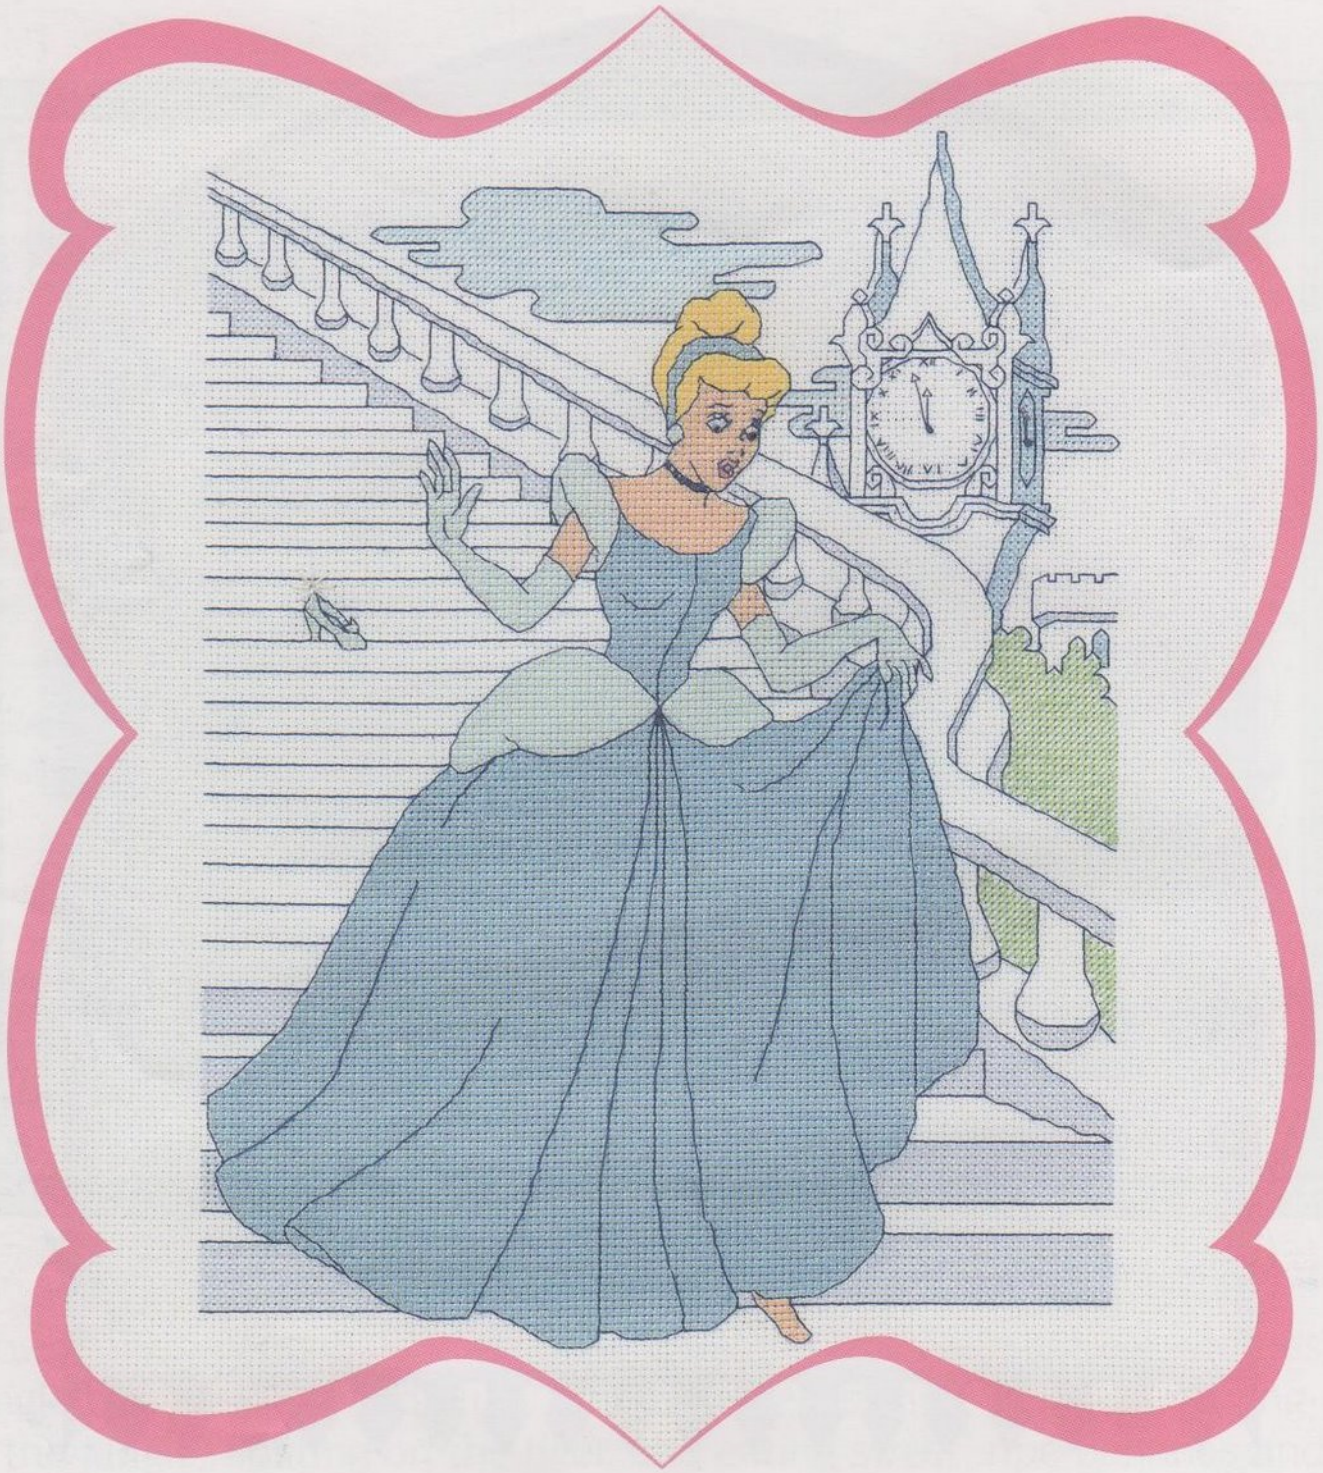
With the encouragement of Timothy, a feisty circus mouse, Dumbo discovers a hidden talent in his big ears — he can fly! He soon becomes a worldwide sensation and realizes that with a little faith, trust, and a wide-enough ear-span, anyone can reach the highest heights.

Bambi, Thumper, and Flower love to go on friendly frolics in the forest, where they can scamper through the trees and eat juicy blossoms to their hearts' content. There are also new woodland friends to meet, like this pretty little butterfly.

Mowgli the "mancub" and Baloo, a carefree, laissez-faire bear, are best jungle buddies. The two enjoy "the bare necessities," such as playing in the jungle, floating on the river, and eating sweet, ripe bananas and coconuts all day long.



Stricken by Maleficent's terrible curse, Princess Aurora can only be aroused from her eternal slumber by true love's kiss. With the help of Prince Phillip, Maleficent is destroyed, and Sleeping Beauty is awakened.



As she hears the dreaded sound of the clock tower striking midnight, Cinderella rushes down the staircase, leaving her glass slipper — and her heart — behind. But dreams do come true for Cinderella when the Prince vows to marry the maiden whose foot fits the tiny slipper.

Proudly exclaiming, "You'll never have to grow up there," Peter Pan invites Wendy and her brothers to go with him to Neverland. Wonderful thoughts and a sprinkle of Tinker Bell's magic "pixie dust" are all the children need to fly off to a fantastical adventure.
